WhatsOn Code of Conduct

WhatsOn is a platform where organizations and people working on combatting organized crime and corruption can engage, network and share among each other about their important work. We ask that you follow this Code of Conduct in the use of WhatsOn and its features, namely the WhatsOn Blog, the WhatsOn Event Calendar and the Organization's Profiles, to ensure a safe space, a professional environment and productive and respectful engagement. This Code of Conduct is enforced by the WhatsOn administrators, and at their discretion they may delete blog entries, events and profiles that do not comply with it without warning. Failure to comply with this Code of Conduct may lead to removal from the platform.

WhatsOn members are expected to comply with the following when using the platform:

- Write in a manner that is professional and respectful of other members and their views.
- Write as your organization and not in your personal capacity.
- Refrain from sharing contact and personal information without the consent of the person in question.
- Keep it friendly.
- Stay on topic. When drafting a blog entry, calendar event or your organization's profile, give a clear title and description and use only the appropriate tags and categories.
- Limit your contributions to organized crime and corruption topics and closely related areas of work.
- Refrain from demeaning, discriminatory, or harassing behaviour and content.

WhatsOn administrators maintain the right to remove content that does not comply with this Code of Conduct to ensure that information posted in the platform is not potentially harmful to other members. For this reason, we may delete or choose not to publish any blog entries, calendar entries or profiles that:

- Contains disrespectful or derogatory remarks about any person.
- Contains content that we believe is damaging, unhelpful or distressing to other members.
- Contains swearing or offensive language, is nonsensical and/or irrelevant.
- Promotes personal beliefs in a way that is disrespectful of the choices of others.
- Is racist, sexist, homophobic, sexually explicit or suggestive, abusive or otherwise discriminatory or objectionable.

This Code of Conduct is designed to ensure that the WhatsOn Platform is a safe space for all the members to engage, share and interact in the advancement of their work on combating organized crime and corruption.
